Summary

Robertson received an offer to purchase a property that she had listed for sale. The offer was sent to Robertson by another registrant, who represented a consumer under the terms of a Buyer Representation Agreement.

After the consumer's unsuccessful attempt to purchase this property, and unbeknownst to the other registrant, Robertson communicated directly with the consumer and interfered in their relationship.

The Discipline Committee found that Robertson breached sections 3, 7, and 39 of the Code of Ethics. She was ordered to pay a fine of $13,000 and to successfully complete the "REIC2600: Ethics and Business Practice" course.
